Sun Peaks. Where you belong.

Sun Peaks. Where you belong.

High above the confluence of the North and South Thompson Rivers lays the easily accessible mountain community of Sun Peaks, where the air is comfortably cooler—with a note of adventure. And there’s always something going on.

Whether it’s relishing the fresh farm-to-table fare of the Sunday market or losing yourself in the captivating melodies of First Friday’s lively music scene, Sun Peaks provides endless reasons to visit in the summertime. Stroll through the pedestrian only village and check out the 45+ locally-owned boutique shops and restaurants, including nine hotels and lodges offering a wide range of accommodation options.

Most importantly, immerse yourself in the unique mountain culture and get to know the friendly locals, who are always up for a chat.
