About Sun Peaks

Sun Peaks Resort is a year round, four season alpine resort located in the Thompson Okanagan region of British Columbia. It's a scenic 45 minute drive north of Kamloops, BC.

With over 700 hotel units and hundreds of condo, townhome and chalet rentals, the resorts' sleeping capacity is over 7000. Add the many restaurants, bars, cafés and retail shops, Sun Peaks is a premier mountain resort destination. In 2009, Sun Peaks was named Best Alpine Resort in Summer, by Ski Canada Magazine.

Formerly Tod Mountain (since 1961), strategic capital investment began in 1993 when Nippon Cable Co. of Japan purchased the development and renamed it "Sun Peaks". In 2006, the second phase of a four phase development plan began. In partnership with Ecosign, a resort development company having designed over 225 resort developments in over 26 countries including two Winter Olympic Games and several World Alpine Championship venues, Sun Peaks Resort will eventually see four mountains, a second village area, a recreation centre and additional chairlifts. In June 2010, Sun Peaks Resort became the first Mountain Resort Municipality in Canada, led by Mayor Al Raine and four councillors. Al Raine, former National Ski Team coach and husband to Nancy Greene, has played an integral role in BC's ski industry since the 70's and was on the first municipal council in Whistler.

With a full conference centre and a range of accommodations including a luxury 4-diamond option, Sun Peaks' profile rivals other destination resorts in North America and around the world.
