

Sun Peaks Forecast (Inside ski area boundary)

Issued at 7 am

Morning

Afternoon

Beach weather? Bikes?... BIKES!!

Evening

Current weather and snow conditions

The snow safety team is peacing out for the winter. Keep playing safe while there is snow and watch for those changing spring conditions. Visit www.avalanche.ca for the public avalanche bulletin and pay attention to the forecaster blog for spring problems when the bulletin stops being published See you all in November have a wonderful summer!!

Changing conditions between AM and PM

Snow conditions

Tree line	HS	Snow T10 °C	24 HR
Below tree	HS	Snow T10 °C	24 HR

For more information please contact one of the snow safety team

Avalanche Canada Forecast

North Columbias

Issued yesterday at 4 pm

	Today	Tomorrow
Alpine	2 - Moderate	2 - Moderate
Tree line	2 - Moderate	2 - Moderate
Below tree line	1 - Low	1 - Low

More information at www.avalanche.ca or Avalanche Canada mobile app

CAUTION

The avalanche hazard information is a generalized forecast from Avalanche Canada for this region provided for your information only. Local conditions can and do vary widely and can be dangerous at any time even if the forecast does not report this. Know your route, be properly equipped, notify someone of your travel plans, never ski alone. Sun Peaks Resort LLP does not endorse or encourage going beyond the ski area boundary at any time. Persons going beyond the ski area boundary do so at their own risk and assume all liability and responsibility for their own safety.